About the TOEIC® Listening and Reading Test

The TOEIC® Listening and Reading test is an English-language proficiency test for people whose native language is not English. It was developed to assess the English-language listening and reading skills needed in the workplace and everyday life. TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores indicate how well a person can communicate in English with others in a business setting. Total time: approximately 45 minutes.

- Reading Section: The Reading section includes three parts, testing how well you understand written English. You will read a variety of materials and respond at your own pace to 100 questions based on the content of the materials provided to you.

Total time: 75 minutes.

What score do I need to “pass” the TOEIC Listening and Reading test?

The TOEIC Listening and Reading test is not the kind of test that you “pass” or “fail.” Not every job or task requires the same level of English proficiency. Because it was developed specifically to meet the needs of the workplace, the TOEIC Listening and Reading test measures many levels of ability. It enables test takers to demonstrate what they currently can accomplish in English. The single, continuous scale also makes it possible for learners to set attainable goals and to measure their progress as their English improves.

Many companies use the TOEIC Listening and Reading test to set their own score standards based on the levels of English necessary to carry out particular responsibilities. Your company may require employees to have a minimum TOEIC score due to the corresponding level of English that is needed on the job. Many companies offer English-language training to help their employees reach target TOEIC scores, which reflect specific levels of proficiency based on professional need.

Also, academic institutions may use certain cut scores to place students in the appropriate English-language course in their training program or for exit exam purposes.

If you require special testing arrangements because of a disability, please contact your local EPN member to discuss your needs at least six weeks in advance of the test date. Your local EPN member will make every effort to accommodate you. There is no additional cost for special accommodations.

Among the accommodations that can be provided are extended testing time, breaks, audio testing, large print, braille and non-audio (without oral stimulus) versions of the test, or other aids customarily used by the test taker.

All requests for accommodations must be approved in accordance with TOEIC® program policies and procedures. These procedures are located on the website at <http://www.ets.org/toEIC/test-takers/listening-reading/disability-accommodations/>

Why does the TOEIC® program require TOEIC Listening and Reading paper-delivered test takers to use only pencils and no other writing instruments?

It has always been the industry standard, set by makers of the optical scanners used to read answer sheets, that only No. 2 pencils be used to mark responses on the answer sheets. This ensures proper reading of the response ovals during the scoring process. Like other testing programs, ETS requires TOEIC test takers to use only No. 2 pencils to fill in the answer sheets. Other writing instruments, such as pens, are not permitted, as they can make the answers bleed over or stain the answer sheets in a way that causes errors in scanning. ETS makes the No. 2 pencil requirement clear to all test takers, and if the use of other instruments creates errors in the scanning process, the result is the test taker's sole responsibility.

The TOEIC® program does not permit mechanical pencils, mechanical erasers, or pens into the testing room because security incidents in the past have demonstrated that information can be brought into the test room, or test items can be removed from the test room, using an unapproved writing instrument.

How is the TOEIC Listening and Reading test scored?

Scores are determined by the number of correct answers, which is converted to a scaled score. The score report provides Listening, Reading, and total scaled scores. The total scaled score is derived by adding the 2 scaled scores together.

Why are the TOEIC Listening and Reading test raw scores (i.e., number-correct scores) not reported to test takers?

The TOEIC® Listening and Reading test item development process includes a rigorous series of reviews that ensure all items meet ETS's quality and fairness standards. Individual test forms are then carefully assembled so that each test form is similar in overall difficulty to other test forms. Nevertheless, some minor variations in test-form difficulty are expected across forms. As a result, a test taker may achieve a higher or lower raw score depending on the individual form (assuming their ability remains the same). In short, raw scores from different test forms are not comparable, due to inevitable differences in overall form difficulty.

For this reason, the TOEIC® program has established the policy that raw scores should not be reported to test takers. To ensure comparable scores, only scaled scores are reported to test takers. Scaled scores are transformed and derived from test takers' raw scores through a proven statistical procedure called "equating." This procedure adjusts for test-form difficulty and establishes the relationship between test takers' raw and scaled scores so that the scaled scores from different test administrations are comparable.

Why are the TOEIC® Listening and Reading test raw-score-to-scaled-score conversion tables not disclosed to the public?

Statistical analysis is conducted after each public testing administration (also known as a Secure Program administration), and a unique raw-score-to-scaled-score conversion table is created for each test form based on statistical equating results. Scaled scores that are comparable across different test forms are then reported back to the test takers. The TOEIC® scaled score range is from 5 to 495 on both the listening and reading sections.

As each test form will be reused multiple times in different areas of the world, the TOEIC program has a policy not to release test forms, for security reasons. Since test forms are not released to the public, the conversion table that is unique to each test form is not released either. A conversion table, used for reporting scaled scores, is of no practical use to the public when the test form to which it applies is not disclosed. In fact, the conversion table may fall subject to misuse if it is applied to the wrong test form and results in incorrect scaled scores being calculated.

Why are TOEIC Listening and Reading test items and answer keys not disclosed to the public?

TOEIC® Listening and Reading test forms are used in multiple test administrations and therefore must be maintained under secure conditions at all times. If the items and answer keys were disclosed to the public, such exposure would erode the integrity of the testing program. In addition, TOEIC Listening and Reading test items and answer keys are protected by copyright law as property of ETS, the copyright holder of the TOEIC tests. For this reason, ETS's TOEIC Listening and Reading test items and answer keys should not be disclosed or used for any purpose without written permission by ETS.

Preparing to Take the TOEIC[®] Listening and Reading Test

How to Get Ready to Take the TOEIC[®] Listening and Reading Test

The TOEIC[®] Listening and Reading test is not based on the content of any particular English course but rather on your English-language proficiency — your overall ability to use English. Improvement in proficiency may take some time and is generally achieved through a combination of practice and study. The TOEIC Listening and Reading test does not test business knowledge, and you are not required to know specialized business and technical vocabulary beyond what is used in everyday work activities.

Before taking the TOEIC Listening and Reading test, there are several things you can do to prepare for the test and improve your English proficiency:

- Become familiar with the test format and know how to mark your answers on the answer sheet. You can then focus your attention on the test questions themselves.
- Carefully review the test directions and the sample questions on pages 12–20, and the sample Background Questionnaire and sample answer sheet on pages 22–25.
- Immerse yourself in the language as frequently as possible and in as many ways as possible if it has been some time since you have had contact with English. Reading, watching TV and videos, listening to recordings, taking an English course, and speaking with friends and colleagues are some of the ways to practice English.

The official TOEIC website has many resources you may find helpful to familiarize yourself with the test:

- test preparation material
- scoring information
- frequently asked questions (FAQs)

Test Day Procedures

During the Test

- Work quickly and carefully.
- Do not spend too much time on any one question.
- Mark your answers on your answer sheet and not in the test book.
- Mark only one answer for each question. If you mark more than one answer, that question will be counted wrong — even if one of the answers you marked is correct.
- You will receive credit only for answers marked in the circles on the answer sheet. You will not receive credit for answers entered in the test book. Your score will be based on the number of questions you answer correctly. There is no penalty for guessing.
- Try to answer every question to the best of your ability.

- Pay close attention to the time during the Reading section of the test. In the Reading section (75 minutes) you have to pace yourself, so work quickly and if you do not know the answer to a question, come back to it later.
- You may not use note paper.

Identification Requirements

All test takers must read Part 1. Depending on whether you will be taking the test within or outside your country of citizenship, you must also read either Part 2 or Part 3, as appropriate.

Part 1: Information for All Test Takers

- You must have acceptable and valid ID with a signature and photograph to be admitted to a test center. Expired documents are not acceptable.
- The photograph on your ID document must be recent and recognizable. Original documents must be presented; copies are not acceptable. Identification requirements are strictly enforced. It is your responsibility to read and understand the instructions and requirements.
- If you don't have one government issued ID with both a photograph and a signature, you may present two primary government-issued photo IDs without signatures.
- If you arrive at the test center without the required identification, the test administrator will not admit you, you cannot take the test, and you forfeit your test fee.

When registering for the test, you must use exactly the same name that appears on the primary identification document you will present at the test center. Make sure to provide your entire first (given name) and entire surname (family name). Do not register under a nickname. If the name shown on your primary identification does not match the name used at registration, you will not be permitted to take the test and you will forfeit your test fee. Check the name on your registration confirmation document. If the name does not match the name on your primary ID document, contact your local EPN office.

- Only misspellings of your name can be corrected at check-in — name changes will not be made. If your name has changed for any reason, including marriage, you must still present primary identification in the name under which you registered, or you will not be permitted to take the test.
- If the test center administrator questions the ID you present, you will be required to present a secondary ID.
- If positive confirmation cannot be made, you may be refused admission to the test center and you will forfeit your test fee. Admittance to the test center does not imply that your form of identification is valid or that your scores will be reported. All reported cases of questionable ID are subject to review and approval by the ETS Office of Testing Integrity and/or the local EPN office.
- Test center personnel will check your identification before assigning you a seat at the test center. The administrator will check your signature and photograph to verify that you are the person in your photo identification.
- The photograph on your ID document must be recent and recognizable. For example, a ten-year-old photograph taken during childhood is not acceptable.

Acceptable Primary Identification Documents

- Passport with photograph and signature
- Driver's license with photograph and signature
- State identification with photograph and signature

Part 2: If Testing WITHIN Your Country of Citizenship

Only one form of primary ID is needed if your primary ID document contains a photograph and signature.

Please see the list of acceptable primary ID documents on the previous page. However, if the test administrator has any concerns about the primary ID document, you will be required to present a secondary ID from the list above.

If your primary ID does not contain your signature, you must either sign the document or present an additional ID from the list of secondary identification documents. If your passport does not contain your signature, you must either sign your passport or present an additional ID from the list of secondary identification documents (see “Acceptable Secondary Identification Documents” on page 8).

United States military personnel may present their United States military ID cards for admission to test centers. If a military ID card does not contain a photograph and signature, a secondary ID is also required.

Testing in European Union/Schengen Zone/Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) Arab Countries or Mercosur Countries

If you are testing in a European Union, Schengen Zone, Mercosur or Arab States of the Gulf (GCC) country other than the one where you reside, you can use your valid national or European identity card, if you have one. The card must contain your name; a recent, recognizable photograph; your date of birth and your signature. Sample Questions for the TOEIC[®] Listening and Reading Test

With 200 questions, the TOEIC[®] Listening and Reading test measures a wide range of English proficiency. The following sample questions do not indicate the full range of difficulty you will find in an actual TOEIC Listening and Reading test.

General Directions

The following general directions are taken directly from the test book. After the general directions are specific directions for each part of the test, along with sample questions for each of the parts.

This test is designed to measure your English- language ability. The test is divided into two sections: Listening and Reading.

You must mark all of your answers on the separate answer sheet. For each question, you should select the best answer from the answer choices given. Then, on your answer sheet, you should find the number of the question and fill in the space that corresponds to the letter of the answer that you have selected. If you decide to change an answer, completely erase your old answer and then mark your new answer.

Section I: Listening

In the Listening test, you will be asked to demonstrate how well you understand spoken English. The entire Listening test will last approximately 45 minutes. There are four parts, and directions are given for each part. You must mark your answers on the separate answer sheet. Do not write your answers in your test book.

Part I: Photographs

Directions: For each question in this part, you will hear four statements about a picture in your test book.

When you hear the statements, you must select the one statement that best describes what you see in the picture. Then find the number of the question on your answer sheet and mark your answer. The statements will not be printed in your test book and will be spoken only one time.

Look at the example item below.

Example

You will see:

You will hear: Now listen to the four statements.

- (A) They're moving some furniture.
- (B) They're entering a meeting room.
- (C) They're sitting at a table.

Hello,

Thanks for sending my order #3397—it arrived this morning. Unfortunately, the paint was not the one I had asked for. I had selected color SP 944 but received SP 945 (Ocean Waves). They appear right next to each other on your Web site, so the two may have been confused at your end. Could you send me the correct paint, along with additional samples that are close in color to SP 722? That sample worked well in my house; the others looked too green on my walls.

Thank you,
 Arun Phan

TOEIC® Background Questionnaire and Answer Sheet

In order to provide enhanced feedback to TOEIC® clients and test takers, the TOEIC® program will ask you to complete the TOEIC® Background Questionnaire at the testing session before you take the TOEIC® Listening and Reading test.

Background Questionnaire

The TOEIC Background Questionnaire asks about your educational, work-related, English-language, and TOEIC test-taking experience. Your responses to the questionnaire enable your organization to learn more about the backgrounds of people who take the test and some of the factors that affect TOEIC scores and improvement in English. Your responses to the questionnaire are kept confidential and do not in any way affect your TOEIC scores. We encourage you to answer all of the questions. A sample of the questionnaire is included on pages 22 and 23.

Answer Sheet

A sample of the answer sheet appears on pages 24 and 25 of this book.

Accent Marks

If your name (family name and first name) is written with any accent marks, you should complete the top half of section 1 on side 1 of the answer sheet. Above the boxes where you will write your name, there is an area that contains accent marks. You should fill in the circle that corresponds to the accent mark above each letter that contains an accent.

Group Code

Your test administrator may ask you to enter a number on side 2, section 10 of the answer sheet. The purpose of this group code is to enable TOEIC clients to keep track of the performance of a group of people who take the TOEIC Listening and Reading test two or more times as part of a specific English-language training program. The test administrator will give you the appropriate number to enter in the group code section if your organization has asked for this option.

Custom Codes

Your test administrator may ask you to enter a number or numbers on side 2, section 12 of the answer sheet. The purpose of custom codes is to keep track of the performance of certain TOEIC test takers or groups of test takers. Before the actual test begins, if you have any questions about the TOEIC Background Questionnaire and answer sheet, please ask your test administrator.

LISTENING
 Your scaled score is below 200. Test takers who score below 200 may have some of the same strengths as test takers who score around 200, but their performance likely falls below expected.
 The score is not considered a true reflection of the test taker's ability.
 They can understand short (up to 40-second) audio clips of the central idea of a paragraph.
 They can understand extended (up to 4-minute) audio clips of the central idea of a paragraph, but only when the information is explicitly stated or implied.
 They can understand details in short audio clips when the requested information comes at the beginning or end of the clip and when it matches the request.
 To see weaknesses typical of test takers who score around 200, see the "Proficiency Description Table."

READING
 Your scaled score is below 100. Test takers who score below 100 may have some of the same strengths as test takers who score around 100, but their performance is likely to be less consistent. Test takers who score around 100 typically have the following strengths:
 They can locate the correct answer to a factual question when not very much reading is necessary and when the language of the test matches the information they require.
 They can understand easy vocabulary and sentence structure.
 They can understand the basic content, although generalised structures when not very much reading is necessary.
 To see weaknesses typical of test takers who score around 100, see the "Proficiency Description Table."

Score Holds and Cancellations

ETS and the local EPN office reserve the right to take any and all actions — including, but not limited to, barring you from taking any future ETS tests and/or withholding or canceling your scores — for failure to comply with test administration regulations or the test administrator’s directions or where the validity of the scores is questionable. If your scores are canceled, they will not be reported, and your registration and test fees will not be refunded.

ETS and the local EPN office make every effort to report scores that accurately reflect the performance of every test taker. Accordingly, ETS standards and procedures for administering tests have two primary goals: to give all test takers equal opportunities to demonstrate their abilities, and to prevent any test taker from gaining an unfair advantage over others. To promote these objectives, ETS and the local EPN office reserve the right to withhold scores or cancel any test score when, in their judgment, a testing irregularity occurs, there is an apparent discrepancy in a test taker’s identification, a test taker engages in misconduct, or the score is invalid for another reason. Reviews of scores by ETS are confidential. When, for any of the aforementioned reasons, ETS or the local EPN office cancels a test score that has already been reported, score recipients are notified that the score has been canceled, but the reason for cancellation is not disclosed except when authorized by the test taker or in certain group cases.

TOEIC® Listening and Reading Test Scores

Test Fairness and Score Use

The ETS TOEIC® program and its authorized local EPN office have taken steps to ensure, to the extent possible, that tests and test scores are fair for all test takers, regardless of gender, age, nationality, and test taker industry background.

Interpreting Scores

The TOEIC® Listening and Reading test scores you will receive are determined by the number of questions you answer correctly. There is no penalty for wrong answers. The number of correct responses on each section, Listening and Reading, is converted to a number on a scale of 5 to 495. The statistical procedure used to convert scores to a common scale for each section seeks to ensure that TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores obtained on different administration dates mean the same thing in terms of the level of English proficiency indicated.

If you were to take several versions of the test within a short period of time, you would obtain a number of scores that center around an average value known as your “true” score. Two-thirds of the time, your Listening score would be within 25 points of your true score on the Listening section, and your Reading score would be within 25 points of your true score on the Reading section.

Release of Test Results

Local EPN offices are required to publish score reporting timelines so that test takers can determine, prior to registering for a public TOEIC Listening and Reading test, when they may expect to receive their score certificate. Score certificates may be delayed if any type of security review is required.

Test takers must be notified if their scores will be delayed or withheld. Depending on local policies, test takers may expect to receive their score certificate anywhere from 7 to 21 days after the test administration.

Official Score Certificates and Score Reports

The official score certificates and score reports will provide you with your score on each section of the test. A description of the English-language ability typical of test takers around your level can be found on our website, <https://www.ets.org/toEIC/test-takers/listening-reading/resources/>

If you take the test through your employer or sponsoring organization this is an institutional test and your scores are provided to that organization. It is the responsibility of your employer or organization to provide you with a score report, which is only valid internally for that organization. Some organizations will choose to only use a score roster and not provide a score report. If you take the test independently during a public test administration, you will receive your official score certificate directly from the local EPN office. This official score certificate and your scores can be used worldwide.

In addition to the section scaled scores, the TOEIC Listening and Reading Official Score Certificates and score reports provide extra score information.

Scaled Scores

The official score certificates and score reports provide Listening, Reading, and Total scaled scores. The Total scaled score is derived from adding the two section scaled scores together.

Score Proficiency Descriptions

The official score certificates and score reports provide a description of the English-language abilities typical of test takers scoring at around a particular scaled score level. Because of limited space in the score report, only statements of strength are provided in the certificates and reports. There are three possible descriptions for the Listening section and four possible descriptions for the Reading section. A complete table of these descriptions is available on the ETS website, <https://www.ets.org/toeic/test-takers/listening-reading/resources/>. The proficiency descriptors were developed based on a Scaled Anchoring Study conducted at ETS in the summer of 2005. A copy of the Scaled Anchoring Study can be provided to you by your local EPN office.

Abilities Measured

The test taker's official score certificate or score report also includes the percentage of questions the test taker answered correctly for specific abilities measured. The percentage can be compared only with the percentage score of test takers who have taken the same TOEIC® Listening and Reading test form. Due to the relatively low number of questions in some abilities, caution should be used when comparing percentages across test takers who have taken even the same form. The abilities measured are calculated by the "percentage of items answered correctly." For example, if in one form there are 20 items to measure one type of ability, and a candidate answered 11 out of 20 items correctly, the percent correct score is 55%. The TOEIC® score is scaled based on a conversion table. This is to make sure your scores are comparable to the test takers who have taken a different form. Therefore, your TOEIC scores measure your English Proficiency level, and abilities measured only tell the percent of answers correct in that category.

Percentile Rank

A percentile rank score refers to the percentage of the TOEIC Secure Program population in the most recent three years who score below a particular scaled score. The percentile rank table is calculated based on a pool of 3-year test takers and is updated and made available on the ETS website, <https://www.ets.org/toeic/test-takers/listening-reading/resources/>, every May. For example, the percentile rank table of May 2017 is calculated based on test takers from January 2014 to December 2016. The percentile rank table of May 2018 is calculated based on test takers from January 2015 to December 2017.

Reliability

Reliability is defined as the proportion of observed score variance that is due to true score variance. It is an indicator of the extent to which test scores will be consistent across different conditions of administration and/or administration of alternate forms of a test. The type of reliability used in the TOEIC Listening and Reading test is reported as an internal consistency measure using the KR-20 reliability index. The KR-20 reliability index assesses the extent to which all items measure the same construct. The more homogeneous the test items, the more consistently the test takers will perform. The reliability of the TOEIC Listening and Reading section scores across all forms from our norming samples has been approximately 0.90 and up.

Standard Error of Measurement (SEM)

Errors of measurement occur when a test taker performs differently on one occasion or test form than on another for reasons that may or may not be related to the purpose of the test. A person may try harder, be more (or less) tired or anxious compared to some other occasion, have greater familiarity with the content of questions on one test form than on another test form, or simply guess more questions correctly on one occasion than on another.

These reasons for inconsistency are generally referred to as errors of measurement. The Standard Error of Measurement (SEM) is an estimate of average difference between true scores and obtained test scores, and is about 25 scaled score points for each of the TOEIC® Listening and Reading sections. A test taker's true score could be estimated by ± 25 scaled score points around the test score obtained from one administration. For example, if you obtain a scaled score of 300 on the TOEIC Listening section, 68% of the time your true score will fluctuate between approximately 275 and 325.

Score Review Requests

If you feel that your scores are not an accurate reflection of your ability in English, you should contact your local EPN office within three months of the test date. The local EPN office will rescore your answer sheet and will give you a second official score certificate. If a discrepancy is found between the first official score certificate and the second one, the local EPN office will pay for the rescoring of your answer sheet. However, if a discrepancy is not found, you may be charged a small fee for rescoring costs.

Testing Irregularities

"Testing irregularities" refer to problems with the administration of a test. When testing irregularities occur, they may affect an individual or group of test takers. Such problems include, without limitation, administrative errors, such as improper timing, improper seating, defective materials, or defective equipment; improper access to test content; and other disruptions of test administrations such as natural disasters and other emergencies. When testing irregularities occur, ETS or your local EPN office may decline to score the test(s), or may cancel the scores. When in their judgement it is appropriate to do so, ETS or your local EPN office may give affected test takers the opportunity to take the test again as soon as possible without charge.

Repeat Test Takers

Test takers who take another version of the TOEIC test may obtain slightly different scores from those they received the first time. A question like this may arise, "How much of a difference must there be between two Listening scores or between two Reading scores before I can say that there is a real difference in my level of proficiency?" This question involves two tests given at two different times. The error of measurement associated with the score obtained from one administration is called the Standard Error of Measurement (SEM). The Standard Error of Difference (SE_{diff}) is the error of measurement associated with the difference between scores from two test administrations. The SE_{diff} for each of the TOEIC Listening and Reading sections is about 35 scaled score points.

Another question that may arise, “If a person began training with a Listening score of 300 and, following training, received a score of 340 on a different test form, has that test taker really improved in Listening or is this increase just a statistical fluke?” Given random errors, one should expect the true difference to fall within a certain score range within a specified percent of the time. For instance, a band of $\pm 1 SE_{diff}$, or ± 35 points, around the obtained score (i.e., 265–335) corresponds to a 68 percent confidence interval. In this case, a 40-point increase is not very likely due to chance alone. This suggests that the test taker made a real improvement.

Validity

Primary evidence that the TOEIC® Listening and Reading test measures English-language proficiency comes first of all from the careful way in which language-testing experts design and assemble the test so as to include a variety of important English- language tasks. An additional kind of evidence that has proven useful in establishing the meaning, or validity, of TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores has come from test takers themselves in the form of self-assessments of their own language skills. Self-assessments have been shown to be valid in a variety of contexts, especially in the assessment of language skills. TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores have shown moderately strong correlations (.40s and .50s) with self-reports of their own ability to accomplish certain English-language tasks, based on aggregated values across a range of Listening and Reading tasks, illustrative examples of which are listed on this page.

Reading	Listening
Reading office memoranda	Understanding directions on how to get to a nearby location
Reading English to translate text into one’s own language	Taking a telephone message for a co-worker
Reading and understanding instructions	Understanding an extended debate on a complex topic

Test Score Data Retention

Scores are used to measure a test taker’s English proficiency at the time that a test is administered. Because English-language skills may improve or decline over time, a score report will not be re-issued if two years have passed since taking the test. ETS does not require testing centers to retain test administration data beyond two years.

Policy and Guidelines for the Use of TOEIC® Listening and Reading Test Scores

Introduction

These guidelines are designed to provide information about the appropriate use of TOEIC® Listening and Reading test scores for corporations or schools that use the scores in making hiring, evaluation, and career promotion decisions, as well as school-related decisions. They are also intended to protect test takers from unfair decisions that may result from inappropriate uses of scores. Adherence to the guidelines is important.

The TOEIC® program and its local EPN office have a particular obligation to inform users of the appropriate uses of TOEIC scores and to identify and try to rectify instances of misuse.

To this end, the following policies and guidelines are available to all TOEIC Listening and Reading test takers, institutions, and organizations that are recipients of TOEIC Listening and Reading scores.

Policies

In recognition of their obligation to ensure the appropriate use of TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores, the TOEIC program and its local EPN office developed policies designed to make official score certificates and score reports available only to approved recipients, to protect the confidentiality of test takers' scores, and to follow up on cases of possible misuse of scores. The policies are discussed below.

Confidentiality: TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores and the documents you complete that are retained by ETS (for example, your photograph) may be released to third parties such as government agencies or parties to a lawsuit if requested pursuant to a subpoena or required by applicable law.

We recognize test takers' rights to privacy with regard to information that is stored in data or research files held by ETS and local EPN office and our responsibility to protect test takers from unauthorized disclosure of the information. For more information please visit www.ets.org/legal/privacy.

Encouragement of appropriate use and investigation of reported misuse: All organizational users of TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores have an obligation to use the scores in accordance with the guidelines that follow (i.e., using multiple criteria, accepting only official TOEIC scores, etc.). Organizations have a responsibility to ensure that all individuals using TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores are aware of these guidelines and to monitor the use of the scores, correcting instances of misuse when they are identified. The TOEIC® program and local EPN office are available to assist institutions in resolving score-misuse issues.

Other Score-related Information

Score Verification

Institutions have the ability to verify score reports sent directly to them by test takers. At the written request of the institution or agency, ETS will verify the official scores recorded for you within the last 2 years. ETS or its authorized representative will also verify your score information at the request of any institution or agency that has a copy of your score report.

Guidelines

- Use Multiple Criteria: Regardless of the decision to be made, multiple sources of information should be used to ensure fairness and to balance the limitations of any single measure of knowledge, skills, or abilities. These sources may include graduate or undergraduate grade point average, years of experience in the target position, and recommendations from past supervisors and colleagues. When used in conjunction with other criteria, TOEIC® Listening and Reading test scores can be a powerful tool in making employment- or school-related decisions.
- Accept Only Official TOEIC® Listening and Reading Official Score Certificates and Score Reports. The only official certificates and reports of TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores are those issued by ETS or by the local EPN office. If an organization administers a TOEIC Listening and Reading test internally, with ETS knowledge and approval, it can obtain and keep score reports of that test. However, those scores are intended for the use of the institution sponsoring the administration and not intended for use by other entities. Scores obtained from other sources should not be accepted. If there is a question about the authenticity of an official score certificate, the question should be referred to the local EPN office, who will then verify the accuracy of the scores and whether an official score certificate was issued.
- Maintain Confidentiality of TOEIC Listening and Reading Test Scores. All individuals who have access to TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores should be aware of the confidential nature of the scores and agree to maintain their confidentiality. Policies should be developed and implemented to ensure that confidentiality is maintained.

Appropriate Uses of TOEIC® Listening and Reading Test Scores

The suitability of a TOEIC Listening and Reading test for a particular use should be explicitly examined before using test scores for that purpose. The list of appropriate uses of TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores that follows is based on the policies and guidelines outlined on pages 32–33. The list is meant to be illustrative, not exhaustive, in nature. There may be other appropriate uses of TOEIC Listening and Reading test scores, but any uses other than those listed on the following page should be discussed in advance with TOEIC® program staff and its local EPN office to determine their appropriateness.

If a use other than those appropriate uses listed on the next page is contemplated, it will be important for the user to validate the use of scores for that purpose. The TOEIC program staff and its local EPN office will provide advice on the design of such validity studies.

Appropriate Uses

Used along with other sources of information, and provided all applicable guidelines are followed, TOEIC® Listening and Reading test scores are suitable for the uses described below.

- Hiring of applicants for an open position within a corporation or organization where workplace and everyday-life English is a required job skill
- Placement of applicants or candidates within a corporation or organization where workplace and everyday-life English is a required job skill
- Promotion of candidates within a corporation or organization where workplace and everyday-life English is a required job skill
- Measurement of workplace and everyday-life English proficiency levels of students in schools
- Measurement of individuals' progress in workplace and everyday life English proficiency levels over time

Misuse

Any use of test scores for purposes other than those listed should be discussed with ETS before being implemented.
